TWO MORE REASONS WHY MK DIAMOND BLADES LAST SO LONG, CUT MORE SMOOTHLY

Reason No. 1: PEOPLE. People who work at MK Diamond, like Emilio Valenti, above. Not only has Emilio worked in the diamond wheel industry for 25 years, he's also an enthusiastic rockhound himself. He's been our master mechanic for about six years and he knows every motor in the plant like the palm of his hand. People like Emilio, sharp-eyed pros, keep things humming on the production line at MK Diamond. And this helps MK Diamond turn out the finest precision blades made!

Reason No. 2: EQUIPMENT. Like the electronic stations that Emilio is checking. These are just two of many electronically-controlled units that MK Diamond has invested in to keep the plant as advanced as space-age science permits. Sophisticated equipment like this is costly, but in the long run it lowers production costs and upgrades quality control . . . by automatically keeping temperatures and pressures at precise levels during the sintering process.

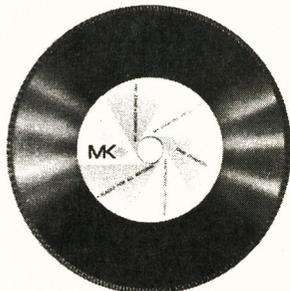

So we've combined old-fashioned skill and experience with streamlined aerospace technology.

RESULT: precision with quality . . . and blades which cut more smoothly, outlast others!

FRANKLIN UNIQUE IN VARIETY OF ORES

Franklin Borough, "The Fluorescent Mineral Capital of The World" continues to excite the interest of mineral collectors, even though mining operations have now ceased. The opportunity to view and perhaps even discover mineral specimens unique to this area attracts an ever greater stream of visitors to these exhibits.

More than 200 minerals have been found at Franklin, the greatest variety ever discovered in one place. Twenty-six of these minerals have been found nowhere else in the world.

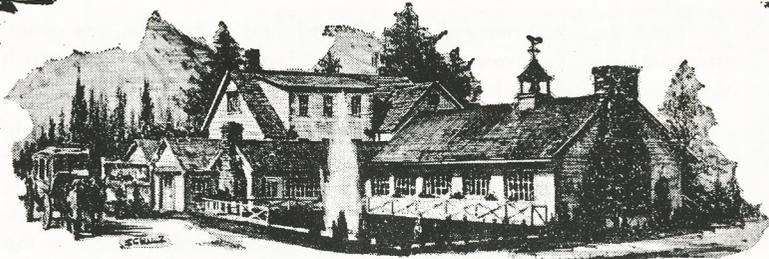

The Franklin ore deposits were first discovered in the middle 1600's. These deposits continued to baffle the mining experts for the next two centuries because they were unlike any other known mineral deposits in the world. Its principle metals are zinc, manganese and iron. All three are present as a complex oxide in the mineral known as Franklinite (named in honor of Benjamin Franklin). Zinc is also here as a silicate, known as Willimite (so named in honor of William, King of England), and as an oxide known as Zincite. Some veins contain all three of these minerals in a complex mixture while other veins consist of the three minerals in almost their pure form. The ore body is also quite unique in that it is relatively free from other heavy metals such as lead, cadmium and copper which are usually found in zinc ore deposits.

All attempts to get the Franklin orebody to yield its zinc were unsuccessful and it was not until 1852 that the first satisfactory method of smelting the ores was developed. Since that time, more modern methods of mining and milling have increased to the point where zinc and zinc products are used in almost every phase of modern manufacturing.

Franklin has in recent years become the mecca of the beginner and advanced rock collectors as well as mineralogist. The professional geologist also has a definite interest, in the diversification of minerals to be found in Franklin. Perhaps, one of the main factors of the popularity of Franklin with these rock-collectors is the fact that so many of these minerals are found on the surface of the ground, thus making it a simple matter for the collector to gather his specimens.

The Franklin Mineral Museum, Inc. is located on Evans Street. The Museum Building is of Fireproof construction, and is connected with the Mine Replica and Fluorescent display room. The building contains a lobby with sales facilities, off this are rest rooms, Curator's office, with its library of Franklin Literature and records, a laboratory and preparation room for the identification of minerals.
